

MOUNT

1955

published by the senior class and associated students of mount st. mary's college, los angeles, california.

the mount

dedications are difficult—but every book must have one.
to put your finger
on the one person
or the one factor
that makes a book possible is difficult
in any case,
but when it is our yearbook,
it is nearly impossible.

we could have honored
the new fine arts building or perhaps those who gave the college its start—
or maybe the privilege could have gone to you, the student—
but because it is called THE MOUNT none of these alone can claim it.

so we had to ask ourselves a question and somehow
find an answer.

what makes

once every three weeks
stacks of paper are found in the library,

st. joseph's hall,

they don't just appear by chance.
they're the result

red-penciling and re-writing—
a work of love
by haggard staff members, relieved once a year
while the freshmen are turned loose
at the presses.

and guide us

it takes more than books
and classes
and homework
to make a college.
and when a person
is called "collegiate"
people don't just think of how that someone
looks in cap and gown
or what her
academic standing is.
"collegiate" is busy—
in dozens of ways . . .

in our ACTIVITIES

caps mean
something
not just any old cap
but square
black ones—
for freshmen
bestowed
at the
academic convocation,
starched
white
ones given at mass
to sophomore nurses,
they're signs
of progress
at the mount.

it was bigger than all of us—the float for the loyola homecoming, that is. and as it turned out, the rain problem was too big for the float. saddest part was that it was almost beautiful . . . but our spirits didn't get wet—only damp around the edges.

dances are naturally favored activities . . .
a chance to go formal and perhaps be a little sophisticated.

something
from brigadoon
on the brentwood highlands?
no—
two student nurses
advertising
their “highland fling”
dance.

september 14 started something out from assembly, excited about music or politics or student government.

some activities
don't look very active . . .
but then
spiritual ones wouldn't.
deep thought
and a y.c.s. study day.

secret ballots?
theoretically . . .
you learn
to take your politics
seriously
when two great candidates
run for one important office.

d.p.'s or fugitives
from a bread-line?
halloween brings out
all sorts of strange things.

green week
means
military discipline
for the freshman
who can't march
or salute.
as c.o.'s
upper classmen
are stern
but just.

there were a hundred things to do . . .

parents go to college too . . .

dads once a year
for father-daughter night . . .

moms more often
with the guild.

books in blue—
a tradition . . .
the sodality's christmas fashion show
and book review.

dates and an orchestra are only part of a dance—pincurls and decorating committees are almost as important.

we worked hard, played often, laughed always . .

there's nothing quite like a zoo lab—worms,
scorpions,
pinned-back frogs,
and
white-coated dissectors.

one of the best things
about night at the mount
was the entertainment—
and the "cheers" were one of the best things about the entertainment.

more halloween . . .
smog controller
this time.
he claims
it works.

it never rains
in california,
—but
it does snow
occasionally,
and we have
to try it out.

some questionable looking characters
showed up
at the gamma
"hard times" dance.

basically the same
but colorfully different the mass in the melchite rite celebrated by father bardaouil.
sung by the
mitchell choir.

if the man says
"play it this way,"
he should know.
he's leonard pennario . . .
sometimes teacher
a concert-stage great.

printers have to be paid—
and votes for view queen help put out the paper.

south of the border for a semester
but still mounties . . .
temporary address—
universidad ibero-americano.

while we

they see none

speak none—

last year's
french scholarship winner—
summer session at laval university, quebec—
greets
this year's winner.

there's irish in all of us—
on st. patrick's day.
you might even find shamrocks
along chalon road.

collected memories

sand in the hot dogs
and warm cokes
at the
big-little sister beach party . . .
and freshmen begin to become mounties.

"haoles" we'd say—
anyway,
pretty strange looking hawaiians.

anything can end up
being a party—
especially around
christmas time—
food for the hungry,
fun for the kappas.

of things

"let's sing!"
an hour 'til study,
and supper's done—
so why not? . . .
in the smoker.

concerts don't just happen.
they come only after practice and practice and practice.

sawhorse steeds
hombres con sombreros—
western party, of course.

palestrina
the glee club

collegiate

colorful and exotic—
thumbed with prayer—
collected with love.

everyone
likes
to be scared—
sometimes—
just a little.
murder and mayhem
for all—“nine girls.”

but what would this be

if you put some buildings on a hill and filled them with books and labs
and desks
and put a teacher with immeasurable knowledge in each room—
do you know what you'd have?
you'd have some buildings and some rooms filled with books and some learned people—
all very important—
but if you added a few students everything would be different—you'd have a college—
and if those people were us
you'd have the mound.

would it be trite
to say that
freshmen have reached the beginning of the end?
probably so—
but it's true—
the last years
of their formal education—
the beginning
of a wonderful part
of their lives.

and when we had thought it through,
we realized it wasn't hard at all . . .
our question had answered itself.
we found that
these things we have mentioned (and far more for which there was no space) have made the mount.

but we learned another thing . . .

there is more to our college than can be put between the covers of a book.
when you glance through these pages again
ten or twenty years from now, you won't just see pictures and read words —
you'll have the feeling in you then
that you have now,
and you'll catch again —
perhaps more briefly,
but just as surely —
that something which is yours
because you've known
the sights
and sounds
and smells
and —
just the feeling that is the mount.
